Wanted Carers/Support Workers

Hi I am a Gentleman in my 40's and I am currently looking for some Support/Care workers to join my excellent team.

I am currently looking for night staff and possibly help to cover any leave or in the day time also.

Here is a little about me;

I am

- Registered blind
- Partially Paralysed
- Type 1 diabetic (yes, the insulin type)
- And I think I am a pain in the Bt but staff like me

As you can imagine I need support in all aspects in my life from opening mail/emails all the way down to personal care.

I also need support with taking medications other than insulin.

And staff need to keep my home tidy as I am bed bound at the moment.

Here is a little more about me;

I like

- Music, mainly hardcore dance (it is music)
- Games consoles, I have nearly every console from your childhood, come and relive those moments.
- Movies
- Model making although I cannot do this myself my staff include me as much as possible by letting me feel the progress.
- Things done in a certain way and it is important to me that staff keep this in mind when carrying out tasks for me.
- Banter who doesn't love a bit of banter, you see up until my recent ill health I was living a "normal life" I had a job and mates who I used to go to the pub with.

If this sounds like a good job for you, please get in touch
